“No Christian denomination has been so indifferent to its history as our own. Our fathers have been left to sleep in unhonored graves. The labors they performed—the sufferings they endured—the heroic characters they bore—have alike been forgotten. The books which, amid penury and toil, they wrote in defense of their persecuted faith, are almost wholly unknown to those who now possess the noble heritage of religious freedom and Christian truth which they bequeathed. It is time for the honor of our name, as a Christian people, that this indifference were broken up, and that we began to study for ourselves, and to teach our children, the lives and deeds of the founders and fathers of our churches. We hail therefore with delight any discussion which shall make our brethren acquainted with the early history of their own denomination, or lead them to linger in pious reverence around the graves of those who, amid obloquy and contempt, first taught the faith we cherish, and first established the institutions of religion and learning to which we are so largely indebted.”

Pattison, Johnston Lykins, and Baron Stow. 672 pages.

Volumes 10-12 in progress

PHILADELPHIA ASSOCIATION SERIES

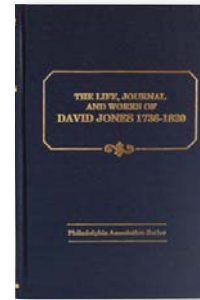

To Set Them in Order: Some Influences of the Philadelphia Baptist Association Upon Baptists of America to 1814

By James L. Clark

Illustrated and indexed $32.00

Dr. Clark examines some of the more enduring influences of this association on Baptist development in America from the time of its formation in 1707 until the formation of the General Missionary (or Triennial) Convention in 1814. It includes a facsimile copy of the earliest edition of the Philadelphia Confession of Faith. 466 pages.

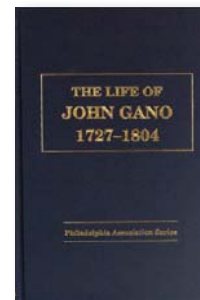

The Life, Journal and Works of David Jones, 1736-1820

By G. Truett Rogers and Terry Wolever

Illustrated and indexed $31.50

In addition to pastoring churches in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, David Jones also undertook one of the earliest Baptist missionary endeavors among the American Indians in 1772-1773. During the Revolutionary War and again in the Indian Wars of 1794-1796 and the War of 1812, Jones served as a chaplain in the American Army, most notably under General Anthony Wayne.

This first-time compilation of material includes a full-length biography of his life by Dr. G. Truett Rogers, the Journal of his two missionary visits to the Indians of the old Northwest Territory and his various other published works. 639 pages.

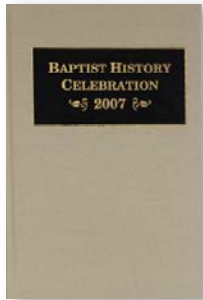

The Life of John Gano, 1727-1804. Pastor-Evangelist of the Philadelphia Association

By Terry Wolever

Illustrated and indexed $42.50

In this newly expanded volume, incorporating a completely revised and corrected edition of the author's 1998 book, The Life and Ministry of John Gano, 1727-1804, the story of this leading evangelical figure of the eighteenth century is related in greater depth, utilizing a number of previously untapped sources. Twelve appendixes cover additional interesting information including a 30-page discussion of evidence on the baptism of General George Washington. 704 pages.

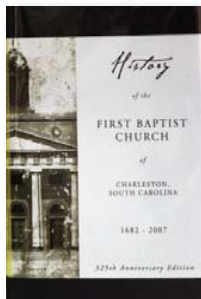

Baptist History Celebration 1707-2007: A Tercentenary Tribute to the Founding of the Philadelphia Baptist Association

Illustrated and indexed $33.00

Convened at the historic First Baptist Church in Charleston, South Carolina, August 1-3, 2007, this collection of biographical essays, presentations on hymnody and other aspects of Baptist life and thought will provide the reader with many topics of interest from a varied spectrum of Baptist historians and thinkers. 663 pages.

CHARLESTON ASSOCIATION SERIES

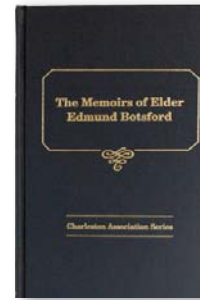

History of the First Baptist Church of Charleston, South Carolina, 1682-2007. 325th Anniversary Edition

By Robert A. Baker, Paul J. Craven and Marshall Blalock

Illustrated and indexed $34.00

First Baptist Church, Charleston, is the oldest Baptist church in the South and, in the view of many, the most influential single church in the development of the people who came to be called Southern Baptists. Here is the story of that church and her influence on Southern Baptist theology, missions, education, women's work, and organization. 652 pages.

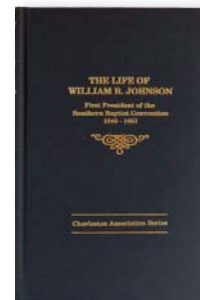

Memoirs of Elder Edmund Botsford

Compiled and edited by Charles D. Mallary

Illustrated and indexed $25.00

"Among the early Baptist ministers in South Carolina, one of the more influential and colorful was Edmund Botsford (1745-1819). He was nurtured in the faith by Oliver Hart, was a contemporary and fellow-laborer with Richard Furman in the Charleston Baptist Association, and a spiritual father to William B. Johnson, John M. Roberts and others. He was a capable minister, an involved worker in the Charleston Association, a writer and a mentor to young ministers. Yet he is practically forgotten in South Carolina Baptist history ... This reprinting ... will help introduce him to a new generation of Baptists." – J. Glenwood Clayton, from the Introduction. 251 pages.

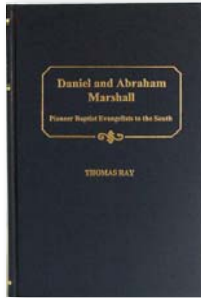

The Life of William B. Johnson

By Hortense C. Woodson

Illustrated and indexed $24.00

A spiritual heir of the early Particular Baptists in South Carolina, William B. Johnson's contribution to American Baptist life was not as a theologian, but rather as a man remarkably gifted in organizational and administrative skills – traits that would lead him into prominent leadership positions of great influence. After serving as president of the General Missionary (or Triennial) Baptist Convention from 1841-1844, Johnson went on to become the first president of the newly-formed Southern Baptist Convention, serving in this capacity from 1845-1851. Described as "the major architect of the Southern Baptist Convention," Johnson's role in the formation of what has become the largest Protestant body in the United States is thus of great significance. This reprint has been enhanced by additional illustrations, a comprehensive index, and valuable appendices. 255 pages.

OTHER AMERICAN BAPTIST BIOGRAPHIES AND HISTORIES

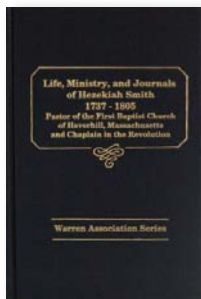

Daniel and Abraham Marshall

By Thomas Ray

Illustrated and indexed $28.50

Together with Shubal Stearns, Daniel Marshall founded the Sandy Creek Baptist Church in North Carolina, which had a direct bearing on the subsequent rapid growth of the Baptists in the Carolinas and Virginia. To Daniel Marshall also belongs the honor of establishing the first continuing Baptist church in Georgia at Kiokee in 1772. Abraham Marshall, his son, was even more conspicuous as an itinerant pastor-evangelist. "In New England his sermons drew together vast crowds, some comparing him to [George] Whitefield in eloquence." This new work also contains the complete Memoirs of the Late Rev. Abraham Marshall. 330 pages.

The Life, Ministry and Journals of Hezekiah Smith

By John David Broome

Illustrated and indexed $43.00

"This intrepid Baptist minister was a potent factor on the American religious scene for over forty years. While most men would have been content with the successful pastorate which he held in Haverhill, Massachusetts, from 1764 to 1805, Smith's wide itinerations carried his influence far beyond the little town by the Merrimack River. Chronicled in a series of journals which he kept, his life and work strike an unusual portrait of a man whose story deserves the attention of the American historian." — from the author's introduction to the Journals. 717 pages.

Anthology of Early Baptists in New Hampshire

Compiled and edited by Terry Wolever

Illustrated and indexed $36.00

This collection of materials on the early Baptists in New Hampshire provides the researcher with much more detailed information not found in the standard histories of Baptists in this state. 601 pages.

MISSIONARY SERIES

The volumes in this series are uniformly bound in dark green cloth vellum with gold stamping on the front and spine.

The Three Mrs. Judsons

By Arabella Stuart

Illustrated and indexed $24.00

Ann Hasseltine, Sarah Boardman and Emily Chubbuck, each successively the wife of Adoniram Judson, the first American Baptist missionary to a distant foreign field, demonstrated in their lives the noblest of Christian virtue, and supreme dedication to the cause of Jesus Christ in spreading the gospel to what was then known as the Burman empire. No more fitting monument to the heroic labors of the Judsons can be erected than that of remembering their story. This third printing, commemorating the 200th anniversary of the sailing of the Judsons to India and Burma, has an added appendix, "A Burman Liturgy," composed by Adoniram Judson in 1829, and for the first time, a detailed Index of Persons and Subjects. 410 pages.

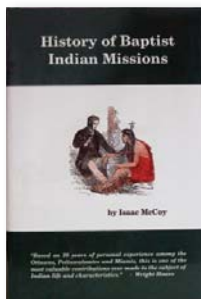

The Autobiography of Isaac McCoy

Edited by Terry Wolever

Illustrated and indexed $28.00

This new volume on the lives of Isaac and Christiana McCoy, missionaries to the American Indians during the early to mid-nineteenth century, includes some scarce and previously unpublished materials, which forms a prequel to his History of Baptist Indian Missions, 1817-1840; his Observations in Vindication of the Doctrine of the Final Perseverance of the Saints (1811); and the first 25 of his 100 “Hymns and Spiritual Songs” (1812). The work by missionary biographer Walter N. Wyeth (1833-1899) entitled, Isaac McCoy—Christiana McCoy: Early Indian Missions (1895) has been reprinted in this volume to provide the reader with a condensed and engaging overview of their work. 474 pages.

History of Baptist Indian Missions

By Isaac McCoy

Illustrated and Indexed $37.00

Completed in 1839, this book constitutes one of the most valuable contributions ever made to the literature of the American Indian or to the annals of missionary endeavor. “The author resided more than twenty years among the Ottawas, Pottawatomies, and Miamis as a missionary. During this period, he kept a journal of events and incidents of Indian life, which with his letters and reports, formed a great mass of material from which to form his history. It is largely composed of the records of personal experience; but is far from being a mere missionary report of religious progress. It is in fact the work of a highly intelligent man, who recorded with the judgment of a historian, while he labored with the zeal of an ecclesiastic; and the result of his early philosophical observations has been, to give us a very valuable record of the characteristic traits of the Indian tribes he lived among.” —Thomas W. Field. 672 pages.

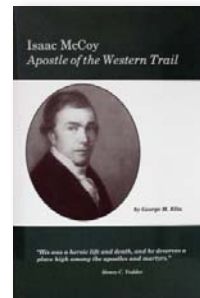

Early Indian Missions, as Reflected in the Unpublished Manuscripts of Isaac McCoy

By Edward R. Roustio

Illustrated and indexed $33.50

The work of the McCoyes in Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and finally Kentucky, was one of unrivaled significance in the early history of each of these states in regards to Indian affairs.

This book also includes the detailed history of the Maria Creek Baptist Church in Indiana, where McCoy first pastored, as well as an appendix by Emory J. Lyons entitled, “Isaac McCoy: His Plan of and Work for Indian Colonization.” 462 pages.

Isaac McCoy, Apostle of the Western Trail

By George M. Ella

Illustrated and Indexed $42.00

The story of Isaac and Christiana McCoy and their missionary associates to the American Indians has long been eclipsed in Christian literature by other such notable worthies as John Eliot and David Brainerd, yet the scope of what Isaac McCoy’s missionary endeavors entailed and in the end what was achieved far exceeded that of his early predecessors in Indian missions and the comparative obscurity therefore is undeserved. Unfolded before the reader in this biography is one of the great chapters in the history of Christian missionary endeavor, and a story of great courage and perseverance in the cause of Christ by those who truly loved the American Indians. 660 pages.

BRITISH BAPTIST BIOGRAPHIES AND HISTORIES

The volumes comprising this collection are all uniformly bound in red cloth vellum with contrasting spine labels and gold stamping, unless otherwise noted.

The British Particular Baptists

Edited by Michael A. G. Haykin

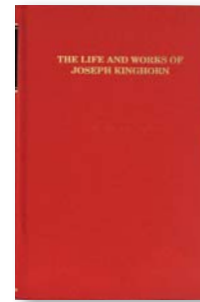

Illustrated V1: only available in 3-volume set
V2: $23.50 V3: $24.50
3-volume set: $70.50

This three-volume set contains concise and interesting biographical sketches of some of the leading figures in British Baptist history, written by a variety of capable authors.

Volume One presents to the reader John Spilsbury, Hanserd Knollys, William Kiffin, John Bunyan, Benjamin Keach, The Stennetts, John Gill, Benjamin Beddome, John Collett Ryland, Robert Hall Sr., Caleb Evans and Samuel Medley. 249 pages.

Volume Two contains essays on Benjamin Francis, Abraham Booth, John Rippon, John Ryland Jr., Andrew Fuller, William Carey, William Steadman, Samuel Pearce, Christmas Evans, Robert and James Haldane, Joshua and Hannah Marshman, and William Ward. 271 pages.

Volume Three includes Anne Steele, John Sutcliff, John Saffery, Joseph Kinghorn, Joseph Ivimey, William Gadsby, Alexander Carson, Christopher Anderson, John Kershaw, J. C. Philpot, William Knibb, Alexander Maclaren, C. H. Spurgeon and Susannah Spurgeon. 340 pages, with an index to all three volumes.

The Life and Works of Joseph Kinghorn, 1766-1832

Compiled and edited by Terry Wolever

Illustrated V1: $24.50 V2: $27.00 V3: $29.00

A widely-known and well-respected figure in his own day, Joseph Kinghorn's life and influence are inseparable from the history of the Particular Baptists in nineteenth-century England and Scotland.

Volume One contains a reprint of Simon and Martin Hood Wilkin's Joseph Kinghorn of Norwich: A Memoir, originally published in 1855 and two sermons delivered on the death of Kinghorn by two fellow ministers in 1832. The profitable exchange of letters between Joseph Kinghorn and his pastor-father David Kinghorn constitute a valuable part of this edifying and instructive biography. 530 pages.

Volume Two contains ten of his published works, dating from the beginning of his writing ministry in 1795 until the year 1817, covering a wide range of subjects and characterized by "Mr. Kinghorn's usual style of calm and careful investigation and argument." 447 pages.

Volume Three continues the selected published works of this important English Baptist figure, including book reviews and essays he was asked to contribute to various periodicals, as well as other collected material relating to his life. A print of the original painting of Kinghorn by the famous Scottish portrait painter Andrew Robertson is reproduced in color along with a sketch of Kinghorn by the Norwich artist J. M. Johnson. This volume completes this set and contains a detailed index of persons, subjects, and churches to all three volumes. 590 pages.

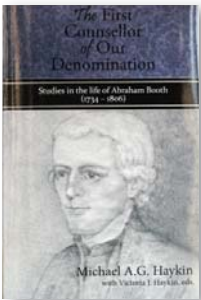

The Works of Abraham Booth

Edited by Michael A. G. Haykin

Illustrated and indexed $27.50

Volume One: Confession of Faith & Sermons.

“Abraham Booth (1734-1806) was a leading Baptist theologian of his day, one of the most widely read Baptist authors of his era, the prime mover in beginning the theological college that would become Regent’s Park College, Oxford, and the first London Baptist pastor to offer active support of the fledgling Baptist Missionary Society. Yet, curiously, not since the early nineteenth century has the set of works by Abraham Booth been in print. The standard edition at that time, and down to the present day, was the 3-volume set, The Works of Abraham Booth (London: W. Button & Sons, 1813). The entirety of this three-volume set [along with other works of Booth, not found in the original set] is now being reprinted in this new set of volumes by Particular Baptist Press. This first volume contains Booth’s sermons from this three-volume set, all of them from Volume 3 of that set. It also contains sermons found in various issues of The Baptist Magazine and Booth’s confession of faith given at the time of his ordination on February 16, 1769.” —from the Editor’s Introduction. 263 pages.

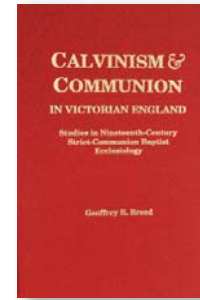

“The First Counsellor of our Denomination”: Studies in the Life and Ministry of Abraham Booth (1734-1806)

*Edited by Michael A. G. Haykin
with Victoria J. Haykin*

Illustrated and indexed $16.50 Kindle ebook: $9.50

This paperback volume is a collection of papers presented by Baptist historians on the occasion of the 200th anniversary of the death of Abraham Booth at Regent’s Park College, Oxford, in 2006. Various aspects of Booth’s influence and legacy are explored in this informative book. 217 pages.

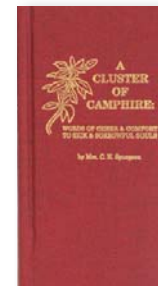

Calvinism and Communion in Victorian England

By Geoffrey R. Breed

Illustrated and indexed $34.50

This study illustrates tensions between Particular and Strict Baptists during the first quarter of Queen Victoria’s reign. Two hitherto untapped sources of Baptist history are explored: the Minutes of the London Association of Strict Baptist Ministers and Churches (LASBMC), 1846-1855 and the Ramsgate Chapel Case of 1862. This book also re-examines the views of C. H. Spurgeon on the Communion issue in light of an interview he had late in his ministry with a Virginia Baptist pastor and contains a reprint of David Griffith’s outstanding treatise on “Baptist Associations and Articles of Belief” (1840), in which he argues the necessity of having stated doctrinal beliefs. 646 pages.

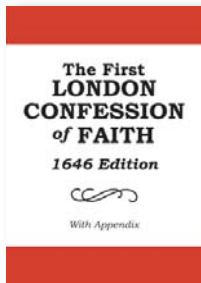

A Cluster of Camphire: Words of Cheer and Comfort to Sick & Sorrowful Souls

By Susannah Spurgeon

Illustrated $17.50

Susannah Spurgeon (1832-1903) was the wife of the famous C. H. Spurgeon of London, known as the “Prince of Preachers.” “A Cluster of Camphire was written by Mrs. Spurgeon after the passing of her own husband. It was intended to act as a soothing balm to those who had lost a loved one to death.” – from the introduction.

This volume, reproduced in its original “pocket edition” format, also contains the publication of letters by Susannah and C. H. Spurgeon and a biographical essay on the life of Susannah Spurgeon, all of which adds to the historical value. 174 pages.

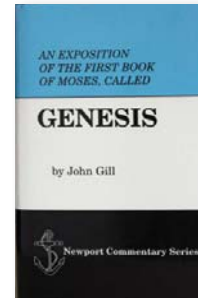

The First London Confession of Faith, 1646 Edition. With an Appendix by Benjamin Cox.

Historical Introduction by Michael A. G. Haykin
$4.00

William L. Lumpkin in his Baptist Confessions of Faith stated that “Perhaps no Confession of Faith has had so formative an influence on Baptist life as this one.” We also believe its historical importance is second only to its Christ-centeredness. Our reprint is designed to make this remarkable confession easier to use by giving each article in the confession an appropriate title, as suggested by other period confessions; placing at the end of each article in the confession, any corresponding reference to the appendix; and including a table of Contents. This booklet would be ideal for individual or group study or for a wider distribution. Paperback, 44 pages.

NEWPORT COMMENTARY SERIES

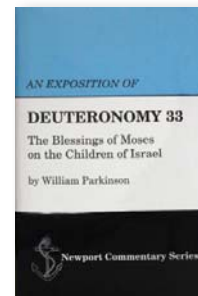

The volumes comprising this collection are all uniformly bound in black cloth vellum with gold stamping and full color dust jackets.

An Exposition of the First Book of Moses called Genesis

By John Gill
Illustrated $32.00

This instructive volume is presented in a new easy-to-read format, complete and unabridged from the pen of one of the leading Bible expositors of the eighteenth century. Making skillful use of an extensive acquaintance with Jewish rabbinical literature and other ancient historical writings, John Gill brings before the reader a narrative of uncommon interest, woven within a substantial, reliable exposition of this important book. 836 pages.

An Exposition of Deuteronomy 33: The Blessings of Moses on the Children of Israel

By William Parkinson
Illustrated and a topical index $32.00

In this volume (originally published in two volumes), William Parkinson not only expounds the text itself, but brings to bear other related subjects in the Word of God which will aid in illuminating one’s overall understanding of biblical things. Moses is portrayed as a type of Christ, who bestows blessings and admonitions upon His people for their good and His glory. Parkinson’s expressed desire was that these sermons “in the hand of the Holy Spirit,” might “be instrumental, in comforting believers—in awakening sinners—and in directing inquiring souls to Christ.” 1134 pages.

An Exposition of the Book of Psalms

By Samuel Eyles Pierce

$32.50 each or two volume set: $60

What makes this two volume set unique among others on the Psalms is that he views the whole book as prophetic of Christ and His Church and expounds each chapter in accordance with this central theme. The result is a spiritually rich, Christ-centered treatise on this favorite Old Testament book.

Volume One includes a biographical essay on Pierce and covers his exposition of Psalms 1-72. Two appendixes and a map of the “Scenes in the life of Samuel Eyles Pierce.” 669 pages.

Volume Two covers the exposition of Psalms 73-150, with two additional related appendixes of works by the author. 703 pages.

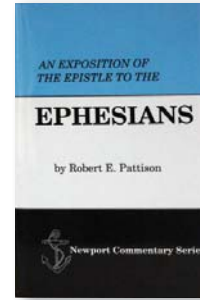

An Exposition of the Gospel According to Matthew

by Charles H. Spurgeon

Illustrated $29.50

First published posthumously in 1893, this volume represents the only New Testament commentary written by Spurgeon and is reproduced here in a facsimile reprint of the original edition published by Passmore and Alabaster, Spurgeon’s publishers. To this 263-page work we have added portraits and other illustrations, but most importantly, a collection of selected unpublished letters to and from Spurgeon, as well as some of his manuscript book reviews and sermon outlines. Color reproductions of some of the more significant letters are included and a previously unpublished work, “Letters on the Down-Grade Controversy, with Notes by Dr. Eric Hayden,” completes this volume. 384 pages.

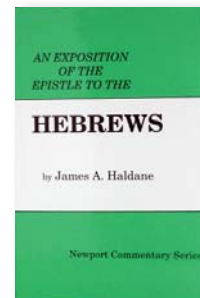

An Exposition of the Epistle to the Ephesians

By Robert E. Pattison

$25.00

Robert E. Pattison (1800-1874) brought years of pastoral experience as well as theological teaching to bear in writing this, “his only literary monument.” First published in Boston in 1859, C. H. Spurgeon counted this work among the very best on this epistle, stating in his Commenting and Commentaries that it was “A book to instruct intelligent, experienced believers,” and “a model for a class-book, plain yet profound.” It includes a biographical essay on the author; an appendix containing Pattison’s address to the Warren Baptist Association in which he contends that it is not the outward miracles that would now commend the gospel to others, but the inward miracle of the transformed life; and a second appendix of a sermon by Hanserd Knollys on Ephesians 1:4. 253 pages.

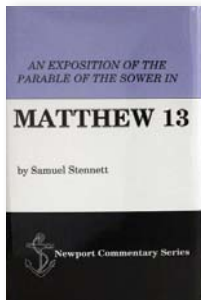

An Exposition of the Epistle to the Hebrews

By James A. Haldane

$26.00

Haldane, in faithfulness to the text, sets forth Christ as the one true Deliverer from sin as the Savior of His People. In Spurgeon’s introductory “Remarks upon the Catalog of Commentaries,” he noted that the books “most heartily recommended are listed with  after the book. In this select category was James A. Haldane’s Exposition of the Epistle to the Hebrews (1860), to which Spurgeon appended the following comments: “a posthumous work issued not as a finished exposition, but as ‘notes of an intended exposition.’ Very valuable for all that.” To this quality facsimile reprint is added Haldane’s work on “The Duty of Self-Examination.” 424 pages.

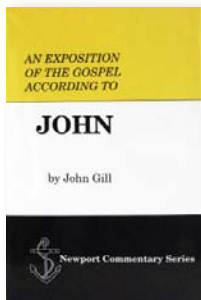

An Exposition of the Parable of the Sower in Matthew 13

By Samuel Stennett

$21.00

Samuel Stennett (1728-1795) was among the last of a long line of outstanding ministers produced by the remarkable Stennett family in England. In this exposition of the Parable of the Sower, Stennett in a series of six discourses not only carefully examines the four kinds of “soils” or human hearts the Word of God comes to, but he also skillfully delineates the responsibilities incumbent on those who “sow the seed” or preach and teach the Word, as well as on those who “hear” or regularly attend upon the ministry of God’s Word. A careful reading of these discourses will enrich one’s understanding a great deal on this key New Testament passage. 224 pages.

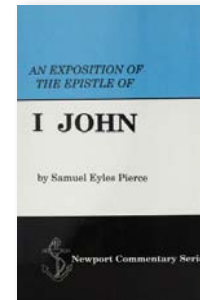

An Exposition of the Gospel According to John

By John Gill

$29.00

This Exposition was originally presented in the form of sermons delivered by John Gill to his London congregation. The truths of God’s Word are set forth in a richly edifying manner. Drawing on a wealth of Rabbinical literature with which to illustrate the text, Gill presents the reader with a solid and sensible commentary while at the same time not losing sight of the spirituality of the Word, nor of its chief subject, the Lord Jesus Christ.

Newly typeset in an easy-to-read print, this volume includes a 13-page historical essay, “Friends of this Valuable Author: Recovering the truth of how the founders of the General Missionary (or Triennial) Convention of Regular Baptists in America viewed the beginnings of the modern missionary movement and the theology of John Gill.” 742 pages.

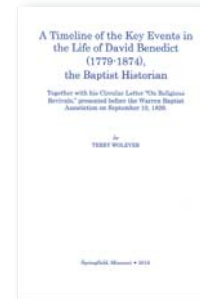

An Exposition of the Epistle of First John

By Samuel Eyles Pierce

Two volumes in one $32.00

One will not read very far into any of the writings of Samuel Eyles Pierce before discovering what an exalted view of the Lord Jesus Christ he had. “You will find it a blessed part of your spiritual life to study Christ,” he wrote years earlier in a letter to a good friend, adding, “You will never trust in Christ any farther than you know Him; therefore the knowledge of Him is the principal thing in Christianity.”

Our facsimile reprint was produced from C. H. Spurgeon’s personal copy of the set now in the Spurgeon Library at Midwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Kansas City, Missouri. 880 pages.

A Timeline of the Key Events in the Life of David Benedict (1779-1874)

By Terry Wolever

$6.00

This booklet presents a detailed chronology of the important events in Benedict’s life, which are not generally known, including ministry matters, denominational and historical publications, family concerns, and other events. An appendix provides his never before reprinted sermon on revivals, stating at the outset that “so important is it, that we should have right views and feelings respecting them, that, on the one hand we should not overleap the boundaries of duty and propriety, nor on the other, stand aside with cold and suspicious indifference from the real work of God.” Paperback, 34 pages.
